Bentley was wandering through the trees. The air smelled of oranges all around him. The weather was perfect and the oranges were growing bigger by the day. He liked to walk through the woods and loved the smell of the oranges, but he didn't like that he and his family ate oranges all the time. Sometimes he wanted to avoid them for weeks. He wished his family could grow other things like corn or the ingredients for his favourite dip that his mom made. His mouth watered just thinking about his favourite dip. Yes, those ingredients would be better than oranges all the time.

"Mom, why do we have to eat oranges every day?" Bentley asked. "Well, since we grow them, there are plenty around" his mom replied. "Does every kid eat as many oranges as we do?" he asked. "No, definitely not. There are parts of the country and parts of the world that don't have the type of weather that oranges grow in. We are actually very fortunate" mom said. "So some kids don't eat oranges at all?" Bentley asked. "We actually send oranges all over the world, so that if people can't grow their own oranges, they still can buy and eat them" explained mom.

Directions: Read the passage and answer the questions.

Bees live in a house that is called a hive. There are three kinds of bees: workers, drones, and queens. Only one queen bee can live in each hive. If she is lost or dead, the other bees will stop their work.

Bees are very wise and busy little creatures. They all join together to build cells of wax for their honey. Each bee takes its proper place and does its own work. Some go out and gather honey from the flowers; others stay at home and work inside the hive.

The cells which they build are all of one shape and size, and no room is left between them. The cells are not round. They have six sides. Have you ever looked into a glass hive to see the bees while at work? It is pleasant to see how busy they always are.

But the drone bees do not work. Before winter comes, all the drones are driven out from the hive so that they don't eat the honey which they did not gather. It is not safe for children to handle bees. Bees have a painful sting that they use in their defense from danger.

1- What's the text MAINLY about?

Directions: Read the passage and answer the questions.

Deep in a forest, a black-and-white bear sits peacefully. It chews the green leaves of a plant. The bear is alone, but there are others not too far away. Later, it might wander over to find them.

They may play together. This is the giant panda in nature. The giant panda is a bear native to China. It is unusual for a bear to be found only in one place. For over a hundred years, scientists thought that giant pandas might belong to the raccoon family. Then research in the 1980s showed that giant pandas are bears after all. These bears are black and white, with black patches of fur around their eyes.

Giant pandas live in bamboo forests, high in the mountains in the western part of China. This is their habitat. Here they eat bamboo. Bamboo is a grass that can grow 100 feet high. It has hollow green stalks. Giant pandas peel off the leaves and stems to eat. Their paws are well adapted to this task. They have a special thumb that helps them grasp the bamboo. Giant pandas spend about 10-15 hours a day eating this plant.

Giant pandas are endangered species. Based on a survey completed in the mid-1980s, researchers determined there were only 1,000 giant pandas left in the wild. This was the lowest number ever recorded. One reason the population of giant pandas had declined is that they had less bamboo to eat. A lot of the bamboo forests where giant pandas lived had been wiped out by logging which is the practice of cutting down trees for lumber. The Chinese government banned logging in the giant panda habitats in order to protect giant pandas.

1- What's the text Mainly about?

- A. Describing how to protect pandas
- B. Giving information about giant pandas
- C. Giving information about bamboo forests
