Charity and volunteering

Helping others is a good thing. It makes you happy and it is good to be kind to others. All of us should donate money to help people in poor countries that have problems because of natural disasters, like earthquakes and droughts. This money is called humanitarian aid. UAE is one of the biggest donors of humanitarian aid. We should also take time to volunteer. You can volunteer to collect money to help needy people or you can volunteer your time to help people like the elderly.
