What do plants need to grow?

A plant is living thing. Plants can grow easily but they cannot grow without light, air and water. Plants need lots of sunlight, so they trap light from the sun using their leaves. That's how they make their own food. In order to help plants grow, you must give them lots of water. Their roots absorb water from the soil after it rains. Plants need air. They take in carbon dioxide from the air and release oxygen back into the environment. Plants also use nutrients in the soil. They absorb the nutrients using their roots.

Follow the above instructions and you see your plants grow quickly!
