There's a(n) / There are some

We use There's to say that a person, animal, place or object exists in a specific space. We use a/an with singular countable nouns, e.g. There's a cherry.

We use There are to say that more than one person, animal, place or object exist in a specific place. We use some with plural countable nouns in affirmative sentences, e.g. There are some cherries.

Countable nouns / Uncountable nouns

Countable nouns have singular and plural forms and can be counted. We can use a/an or numbers before them, e.g. a banana, twelve bananas.

Uncountable nouns only have a singular form and they can't be counted. We can't use a/an or numbers before them, e.g. meat, milk, cheese, spaghetti, tea, coffee, orange juice, rice, soup.

~~a meat~~

~~2 meats~~

~~a milk~~

~~4 milks~~

some / any

We use some and any with plural countable nouns and with uncountable nouns. We use some in affirmative sentences and any in questions.

There are some eggs in the fridge. / There's some milk.

Is there any milk in the fridge? Yes, there is. / No, there isn't.

Are there any eggs in the fridge? Yes, there are. / No, there aren't.
