

Honoring the Parents

I Take the Initiative to Learn

I Notice, and Expect

I Learn from this Lesson to:

- ◀ speak about the parents' grace and favor and the reward of honoring them;
- ◀ conclude that obeying and doing well to parents is a type of worship; and
- ◀ express in my own words how to honor my parents.

- ◆ These little creatures need the necessary care and attention to grow up; who takes care of them?
- ◆ What would happen if these creatures did not find enough care?

- What should his son do?

I Follow the Example and Think

One of the Companions (Sahaabah) wanted to migrate with the Prophet, peace be upon him, to Al-Madinah. His parents were crying because he was leaving them. When the Prophet, Peace be upon him, knew about this, he said to him: "Go back to them and make them laugh as you made them cry." (Narrated by al-Tirmidhi)

I thank them and pray for their welfare.

I fulfill their wishes and requests.

He is my only son.
I stayed awake all night to provide him with comfort, and worked hard all the days to provide him with a good life.
