- 1 So what exactly is an RFID tag?
- 2 In the future, consumers will be able to pay for their purchases without taking them out of the trolley.
- 3 At all times the management knows how many products are on the shelf and when to order more.
- 4 You mean you hadn't noticed?
- 5 As with all new technology, RFID has two sides.
- 6 Imagine how much easier it will be to trace a lost suitcase or to find the family cat if it has an RFID tag.

The RFID revolution

The RFID revolution has started and our lives are changing forever! A _____ Well, for your information, Radio Frequency Identification has been with us since the Second World War, when it was used to identify planes from a distance. Now the United States Army uses it to control its tanks in Iraq.

But RFID isn't only limited to military use. The retail giant Wal-Mart uses it to track goods from the minute they enter the warehouse to the time the customer takes them home and consumes them. B _____

And it's not only the retailer who can benefit from RFID technology. C _____ And we will be able to find out all we need to know about a product from the RFID tag on it. We will also be able to do our weekly shopping without actually having to enter a supermarket.

D _____ It's an electronic label formed by a small antenna and a chip the size of a grain of sand. The great advantage of RFID technology is that the tags can be read from a distance and do not have to be in the visual field of a laser reader.

Other uses of this revolutionary idea run from pet identification to luggage labelling in airports. E _____

But the personal information on the tag poses a threat to security, and there is a growing group of opponents to RFID.

Whatever happens, you can be sure that RFID is here to stay. Once it is fully implemented our lives will never be the same again.

The Piano Man

A _____
At midnight on April 7th, 2006, an unidentified man was picked up on a beach on the coast of Britain by police. He was wearing a black jacket, smart trousers and a tie, all of which were extremely wet. He was acting very nervously and he refused to speak to the police. They took him to a hospital nearby, where the doctors could find nothing wrong with him.

B _____
So who was this man, and where did he come from? The only clue to his identity came when he was given a pencil and a piece of paper and he drew a beautiful picture of a grand piano. When hospital staff excitedly took him to a piano, they were surprised at how well he played. From then on the patient became known as the Piano Man, and the National Missing Persons Helpline published a phone number in the hope that someone would come forward to identify him.

C _____
Calls came in from all over the world from people recognizing him as a French street musician or a Czech concert pianist. The Piano Man didn't seem to understand any of the language experts the police brought in – they even tried a Norwegian ship's captain to see if the Piano Man understood Norwegian. However, his identity remained a mystery and the search went on.

D _____
The end of the story of the Piano Man is, in fact, a bit of an anticlimax. One Friday in August he woke up and told a doctor he was German. The hospital got in touch with the German embassy at once, and they in turn contacted his parents, who confirmed his identity.

E _____
So, it turned out that the Piano Man was, in fact, Andreas Grassi, aged twenty, from Prosdorf, Germany, who was suffering from a serious mental illness when police found him on that beach. He's now recovering from his illness at home while the publicity his story created dies down.

- 3 Linda took up swordfishing because
 - a she needed to earn some money.
 - b all her family are fishermen.
 - c she loves boats and catching fish.
- 4 On the boat described in The Hungry Ocean,
 - a there were five people.
 - b there were six people.
 - c there were four people.
- 5 Linda prefers to be described as
 - a a fisherwoman.
 - b a fisherlady.
 - c a fisherman.

Linda Greenlaw:

SWORDFISH FISHERMAN

Not only does Linda Greenlaw do one of the most dangerous jobs in the world, but she also does it extremely well. She has been described as 'one of the best captains on the entire East coast' and that, in one of the leading countries in the fishing industry, is praise indeed.

Linda was born and brought up on Isle au Haut, a tiny island ten kilometres off the coast of Maine, USA. She fell in love with fishing as a child, and she worked on fishing boats during her summer breaks from college.

Her first opportunity to go on a deep-sea fishing trip came when she was nineteen. Alden Leeman, a man she'd never met before, hired her for thirty days on his swordfishing boat. The trip was a success and eventually Alden offered Linda her first boat to captain in 1986, which probably made her the only woman ever to captain a swordfishing boat.

So, why did she take up swordfishing in the first place? Linda says that not only does she like the way she feels on a boat, but she also gets passionate about catching a fish. More than anything, she's proud of being a fisherman, even more so than she is of being a best-selling author.

Linda has published four books to date, the first of which, The Hungry Ocean, was top of the New York bestseller list for three months. In it, Linda tells the story of one fishing trip and narrates the adventures she experienced on board with her five-man crew, including bad weather, sickness, mechanical problems and, of course, the fish.

But the world of fish and fishing is a man's world and it's not easy to find a word to describe Linda Greenlaw. In her own words, she says: 'I am a woman. I am a fisherman. I am not a "fisherwoman", "fisherlady" or "fishergirl".'

3 Read the text about the film Super Size Me. What effect did Morgan Spurlock's experiment have on his health?

Super Size Me

Super Size Me is a 2004 film by Morgan Spurlock in which he documents his experiment to eat only McDonald's fast food three times a day, every day, for thirty days.

Spurlock made himself a short list of rules for the experiment, including an obligation to eat all of the three meals he ordered. He also had to 'Super Size', which means accepting a giant portion every time the option was offered to him. He ended up vomiting after the first Super Size meal he finished, after taking nearly twenty minutes to consume it.

After five days, Spurlock put on almost 5kg, and he soon found himself feeling depressed, with no energy. The only thing that got rid of his headaches and made him feel better was another McDonald's meal, so his doctors told him he was addicted. More seriously, around day twenty, he started experiencing heart palpitations and one of the doctors detected liver problems. However, in spite of his doctor's advice, Spurlock continued to the end of the month and achieved a total weight gain of 11kg. His body mass index also increased from a healthy 23.2 to an overweight 27.

It took Spurlock fifteen months to recover from his experiment and return to his original weight, but the film also had a wider impact. Just after its showing in 2004, McDonald's phased out the Super Size option and healthier options like salads appeared on the menu. Unfortunately, McDonald's deny the connection between the film and the changes, but it is interesting to note how closely they coincided with the release of the film.

Dear Clara,

Sorry I haven't written for ages, but I've had a good excuse. I was rollerblading down a hill with a wall at the bottom and I broke both my wrists when I tried to stop myself. Stupid, or what?

Enough of all that. What about you? What have you been up to? If you've been studying as hard as me, you're probably completely fed up. Why don't we plan a trip for the end of the exams? I quite fancy going to Venice for a weekend. What do you think?

Guess what? My sister's got a new job in France. She's moving to Paris next month. I'll really miss her, but she's very excited about it. She sends her love.

I'd better stop now as it's getting late. Do write and tell me what you think about my idea.

Lots of love,

Susan

- 2 Read the text about the film WALL-E. What messages about the future of Earth and the human race is the film trying to convey?

- 3 Complete the text with the missing sentences. There is one extra sentence you do not need to use.

- A On the Axiom, man has become completely dependent on robots.
B WALL-E and the robot arrive on the spaceship with the plant.
C WALL-E has stayed behind to clear up the mess.
D WALL-E shows his emotions with hand gestures, facial expressions and robotic sounds.
E The simple act of getting out of a chair and standing up is considered an achievement.
F The robot's job is to look for and analyze any sign of life it encounters on the planet.

WALL-E – A VISION OF THE FUTURE?

WALL-E is Pixar's ninth full-length feature film and the second directed by Andrew Stanton, whose first movie was the delightful Finding Nemo. WALL-E tells the story of a lonely robot's search for friendship in a world which is covered in rubbish. About 700 years from now, pollution produced by the Buy-N-Large Corporation has forced humans to leave planet Earth. ¹ ___ And he doesn't mind his job stacking rubbish into tidy cubes which go on to form the bricks of giant buildings made of rubbish. It also gives him the opportunity to collect some of the stranger objects he finds, like a Rubik's cube, a tennis ball and an old video. However, WALL-E's existence is very quiet and lonely and his only friend is a cockroach.

WALL-E's life suddenly changes when an enormous spaceship drops a second robot on the Earth. ² ___ When the robot finds a small green plant in an unexpected place, it is required to return to the spaceship Axiom to deliver it. WALL-E decides to accompany the robot.

It is during the second half of the film that we see what has become of human beings since they left the Earth. ³ ___ This has turned them into big, fat, lazy beings who spend all their lives sitting in front of computer screens. Their legs have got shorter and are no longer able to support the weight of the huge bodies they were made to carry. ⁴ ___ Communication between the humans takes place with the person on the screen in front of them; they fail to even notice those in front or behind, to their right or left on their aimless ride around the spaceship. ⁵ ___ In the right hands this small green shoot could bring environmental balance back to the planet that man has destroyed.

The story is engaging, the main character is extremely lovable and the music is superb. One of Pixar's best films, WALL-E will probably go on to be considered one of the greatest animated movies ever created.

CHALLENGE!

Invent a life plan, and write some sentences about it.

An essay: for and against

Preparation

1 Read the task. Then put the paragraphs of the essay in the correct order.

'Rapid advances in technology will make the world of the future a more dangerous place.' Do you agree or disagree? Give reasons.

- A To sum up, I do not think that technology will make the world more dangerous in the future. In my opinion, most of the dangers are based in fiction rather than fact.
- B On the other hand, we can see that computers are already making the world a safer place in all kinds of different ways. For example, aeroplanes crash very rarely because computers can correct human error. Computer technology is also making cars safer.
- C Technology is advancing quickly, particularly computer technology. As computers become more and more powerful, will they make the world safer or will they create new dangers?
- D In science fiction films such as I, Robot, machines are usually portrayed as a dangerous threat to humans. In the real world, most scientists predict that computers will become more intelligent than humans, and so people naturally worry that we might not be able to control them.

1 _____ 2 _____ 3 _____ 4 _____

everybody scientists robots	be	for 150 years or more
	do	hours of free time
	have	most jobs
	invent	faster computers
	live	cure every disease
	be able to	super-rich
		stop global warming

Use the chart to make predictions with will. Begin each sentence with I think or I don't think.

- 1 I don't think everybody will live for 150 years or more.
- 2 _____
- 3 _____
- 4 _____
- 5 _____
- 6 _____
- 7 _____

3 Underline and correct the mistake in some of these sentences. Tick the sentences that do not contain a mistake.

- 1 I think new diseases will emerge. ✓ _____
- 2 Scientists will keep searching until they will find a cure. _____
- 3 Which cities will become uninhabitable when sea levels will rise? _____
- 4 Computers will become more intelligent than humans if science will keep advancing. _____
- 5 Governments will eventually ban carbon emissions, but it will be too late. _____
- 6 Global warming will get worse when more and more people in the world will have cars. _____
- 7 Will robots be our friends or will they try to take over the world? _____
- 8 Only very rich people will be able to afford cars when the oil will run out. _____

4 Read the task. Do you agree or disagree? Think of evidence to support your view and the opposite view.

'Science will make sure that life is better in the future.' Do you agree or disagree? Give reasons.

Opinion: I _____ with the statement.
Evidence supporting the opposite view: _____

Evidence supporting your view: _____

Writing task

5 In your notebook write an essay using your ideas from exercise 4. Use the Writing Bank on page 90 to help you. Write 200–250 words and follow the plan.

- Paragraph 1 • introduction
- Paragraph 2 • evidence supporting the opposite view
- Paragraph 3 • evidence supporting your own view
- Paragraph 4 • conclusion

Check your work

- Have you
- used will correctly?
 - written 200–250 words?
 - checked grammar, spelling and punctuation?

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to complain about my broadband internet connection. I am not satisfied with it because it is always ¹ misfunctioning / malfunctioning.

The connection has not worked properly since it was set ² in / up. It is difficult for me to ³ get / obtain online in the first place and when I do, the connection is frequently interrupted. You can imagine how difficult this makes things for me. As a student, I need to ⁴ access / treat information quickly and reliably. The fact that I cannot do so is not a fault of the search ⁵ motor / engine that I'm using.

However, it is not only the connection that concerns me. Yesterday, I received a bill from you for the wrong amount. I signed up with your internet service during a special offer, which I was told would be valid for the whole of this year. I ⁶ did / made a lot of research into prices and services before I contacted you, so I am hoping your sales staff ⁷ gave / provided me with the right information.

I am expecting you to solve the problems I have within the next week or I will terminate my contract with you. I have tried to ⁸ reason / regenerate with your customer services department by phone, without any success, and have spent a great deal of time, effort and money doing so. I am hoping that, as a gesture of goodwill, you will ⁹ flock / reduce my next bill and I also expect you to ¹⁰ avoid / prevent similar mistakes with my bill in the future.

- At one point he became so famous that a film was made about him called The Great Impostor, starring Tony Curtis.

The Great Impostor

The greatest impostor of all times is said to be Ferdinand Waldo Demara.

1 _____
So who was this man, and why did he become so famous? Demara was born in Lawrence, Massachusetts, in 1921.

2 _____
Unfortunately for Demara, he hated the army, but he managed to leave by borrowing the name of his army friend, Anthony Ignolia, and disappearing.

Demara used this technique of borrowing the names of people he'd met many times during his life. His most famous hoax was to pose as a surgeon, Joseph Cyr, on a Royal Canadian warship during the Korean War.

3 _____
Cyr's mother read the article and informed the authorities that her son was, in fact, practising medicine in New Brunswick, Canada.

4 _____
His new-found fame together with his enormous size (he was nearly two metres tall and had put on a lot of weight) meant that it was very difficult for him to find another job. Demara died at the age of 62 due to heart failure.

5 _____
It is ironic that the only time he tried to act, in the horror film The Hypnotic Eye, he showed a complete lack of acting ability.

Friendship

READING

Before reading: Making friends

1 Complete the sentences with the words and phrases in the box.

an obligation close to my heart genuine interrupt judge nothing in common on the go

- It's dangerous to judge people by their appearance.
- My music collection is my most important possession. It's very close to my heart.
- It's almost an obligation to invite all your relatives to your wedding.
- Is that painting a genuine Picasso?
- Please don't interrupt me when I'm talking on the phone.
- We lost touch because we had nothing in common.
- I'm sorry. I've been on the go all day and I forgot to call you.

2 Read the text and match the headings (1–6) with the paragraphs (A–E). There is one heading that you do not need.

- Rediscover books and the art of reading
- Take a walk around a supermarket
- Go back to traditional fun
- Get out your writing paper
- Match a voice to a name
- Go to other people's homes

C _____
As an alternative to picking up the phone, you could visit your friends in their own houses, instead of chatting to them every night from your room. That way you could find things to do together and maybe meet their families. You will also be burning off calories, which will help keep you fit and healthy.

D _____
The art of letter-writing died with the advent of the internet, and with it, the joy of receiving letters from others. Write some letters to your friends in foreign countries, and experience the pleasure of getting a letter back.

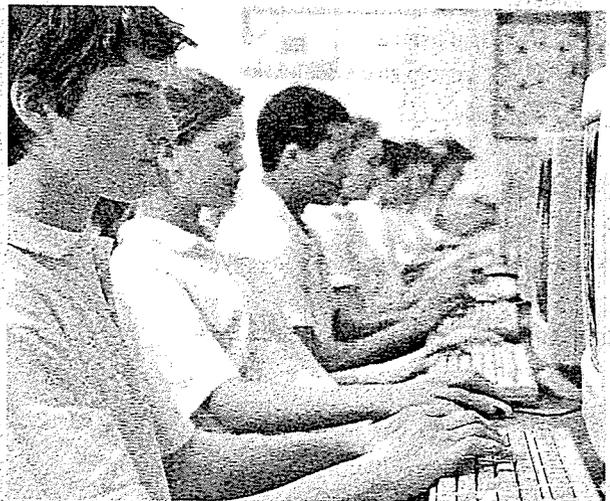

E _____
Discover where your local library is and remind yourself what research was like before the age of the online search. Remember, many others will be doing the same as you, so it will be an ideal meeting place for people of your age.

Life without the internet

Recently, an earthquake in Taiwan destroyed internet lines in Asia, upsetting the lives of millions of people dependent on the web for their work and social relationships. Here are some hints on how to cope if a similar situation occurs where you live.

A _____
With no chatrooms or games sites, you'll have to find your own entertainment. Take out the games boards you put away when you were given your first PC and play Monopoly or Cluedo with your friends and family. You'll be surprised at how much fun it is.

B _____
Instead of emailing your friends, you'll have to talk to them on the phone. And perhaps you can get to know some of the many friends you made in the chatroom and find out if they're actually anything like they said they were in their profiles.

Is there such a thing as a true friend?

Emails to apologize

Preparation

1 Look at the phrases used for apologizing. Mark them F (formal) or I (informal).

- 1 I'm ever so sorry for being so moody. I ___
- 2 Please accept my apologies for spoiling your meal. ___
- 3 I'm sorry, but I had been asleep and I hadn't really woken up properly. ___
- 4 I'm really, really sorry for not remembering your birthday. ___
- 5 I am writing to apologize for being so rude at the weekend. ___
- 6 I am terribly sorry about the damage I caused. ___
- 7 I'm very sorry for shouting at you yesterday. ___
- 8 I very much regret leaving my bike in such an unsuitable place. ___

2 Complete each email with two of the phrases from exercise 1.

Dear Mrs Summers,

1 _____ I am extremely embarrassed about my behaviour and I hope you can forgive me for leaving your house in such a hurry.

The reason I had to go was because a friend had called me telling me he had had an accident, and he needed me to take him to hospital. You had made such an effort to prepare a delicious meal that I should have at least explained to you why I had to leave in the middle of lunch.

I have recently discovered that you were very upset after I left, and that nobody felt like eating lunch. I would like to invite you to dinner at the restaurant of your choice to compensate for my thoughtlessness. I am available all next week, so perhaps you would like to suggest a day which would be convenient for you.

2 _____ I hope you understand that this was not my intention.

Yours sincerely
Bruno Rivers

Hi Laila

3 _____ I feel awful because you have always been a good friend to me and I have treated you very badly. Now you're not talking to me and it's all my fault.

I have no excuse for my bad mood except that I was very nervous about the physics exam we had yesterday afternoon. I had been studying all night and so I was feeling very tired. You didn't seem at all anxious about it, so I think I was a bit jealous of you.

Anyway, I really hope you'll forgive me and you'll let me buy you lunch tomorrow.

I don't know what to say except that 4 _____

Love

READING

Before reading: In the wild

1 Complete the text with the words in the box.

claws horn thrive tusks

I saw an artificial tiger rug recently. It was very realistic, right down to its sharp-looking ¹claws_____. It reminded me of the huge number of animals in the wild that are killed for profit. Many elephants are killed for their ²_____, which are used to make medicines and other remedies in some parts of the world. Rhinoceros ³_____ is used for the same purpose, and, although the practice is illegal, it continues to ⁴_____. It is such a shame that the hunters don't see the power and beauty of these animals.

2 Read the text. Are the sentences true or false? Write T or F.

- 1 The writer didn't have to pay for the trip. _____
- 2 There were eight volunteers staying at the centre. _____
- 3 The volunteers had to rescue the animals from cruel owners. _____
- 4 They had to feed the animals immediately after breakfast. _____
- 5 The volunteers entered some of the cages to feed the animals. _____
- 6 They didn't open the enclosures of the big cats. _____
- 7 The writer thinks that gap years are character-building, but don't help you academically. _____

An unforgettable experience

The trip of my lifetime was definitely the month I spent in Ecuador on an animal rescue project in my gap year. I'd worked temping for six months to finance my trip, and I had the most amazing time imaginable.

I stayed with eight other volunteers in the Santa Martha Rescue Centre, which is situated in a rural part of the Andes, surrounded by volcanoes. The centre cares for animals that have been treated badly by their owners and range from jaguars and pumas to monkeys and parrots. Our job was to feed the animals and keep them clean.

A typical day started at 7 a.m. when we had to give the animals their breakfast before having our own. After breakfast we helped the local staff with maintenance jobs around the centre, like repairing cages and building new enclosures. We normally stopped at around 2 p.m. and then went back to feed the animals again at 4 p.m.

I spent most of my time chopping fruit for the animals, but the best bit was entering the cages and feeding them. My favourites were the baby monkeys who greeted me each morning by jumping all over me and pulling my hair. Watering the young cats was slightly more dangerous and we had to do it in pairs. One person would entertain the cats while the other opened the cages and grabbed the water bowls. We filled the adults' bowls from outside the enclosure, which seemed like a much more sensible idea to me.

The whole trip was unforgettable, and I would recommend everyone to take a gap year. You gain confidence and become more self-sufficient as well as getting hands-on experience of your degree subject. Just earn some money, book the trip you fancy most and get out there and do it!

Secret Millionaire

Secret Millionaire is a reality show with a difference. Instead of winning fantastic cash prizes, contestants have to pay as much as £50,000 each to take part.

A _____

The contestants of the first series were five millionaires of different ages and from different walks of life. They were taken out of their comfortable carefree environments and sent to some of the poorest parts of Britain. Here they had to integrate into the community and live on the minimum wage for ten days. At the end of the programme, they decided which of the people they met deserved their money most.

3 Match the two halves of the sentences.

- 1 Ben Way gave a volunteer some money so that _____
 - 2 Contestants have to promise to give some money away in order to _____
 - 3 The millionaires were sent to poor areas to _____
 - 4 Ufu Niazi had been working with no pay to _____
 - 5 Ben gave some money to the Pedro Club so that _____
 - 6 The television crew accompanied Ben in order to _____
- a get on the show.
 b ensure the centre stayed open.
 c he could get married.
 d film the documentary.
 e find deserving causes for their money.
 f it would be easier to run.

B _____

The first contestant was 26-year-old Ben Way, who is reputedly worth around £25 million. Ben's destination was the London district of Hackney, commonly known as the 'gun mile'. His explanation for the television crew following him everywhere was that they were filming a documentary about how poor people from the countryside mixed with poor people from the city.

C _____

Ben spent an eye-opening ten days working at the Pedro Club, a youth centre for disadvantaged youngsters. Run by manager Ufu Niazi, the centre was financed purely by donations and grants, and Ufu had been working with no pay for over two years.

D _____

At the end of the show Ben gave £20,000 to the Pedro Club for renovation, wages, and to build a recording studio on the premises, which could be rented out to provide a permanent source of income for the centre. Ben also gave money to one of the volunteers so that he could get married, and to one of the members to realize his dream of becoming a fashion designer.

E _____

The series portrayed millionaires as real people who seemed quite happy to give away part of their fortune. We can only hope that Secret Millionaire continues well into the future so that even more cash is made available to deserving causes.

Thanks a million

 - when he was a teenager.
- Wyland's murals are planned
 - carefully before he starts painting.
 - when he's standing in front of the wall.
 - in a sketch he makes beforehand.
 - on his computer.
- The main reason why Wyland paints whales is because
 - he likes them.
 - he wants to show people how beautiful they are.
 - he wants to save them from extinction.
 - they are very big.

Some of the largest and most beautiful outdoor murals in the world have been created by the American artist Robert Wyland, or 'Wyland' as he prefers to be called.

Wyland's murals depict an animal that he is passionate about: the whale. His inspiration lies in the whales he has studied and swum with as a diver and practising environmentalist.

Wyland's first encounter with the sea was on a family visit to California when he was 14. The experience of seeing his first whale in the Pacific Ocean had an enormous impact on his life and his future. When he returned home he threw himself into the study of marine life and started excelling in sport. In 1977 he painted his first whale mural in Laguna Beach, California, which is now a famous landmark. His goal is to paint 100 murals before 2011.

The whales in Wyland's murals are all painted life-size, which means they are absolutely huge. He never knows exactly what he is going to paint until he approaches the blank wall with his paint sprayer. His painting technique is also unusual, as he uses none of the traditional methods typical of such large projects, like sketches, outlines or grids. Most of his murals take about a week to make and he has done painting tours where he has painted 17 murals in 17 weeks.

However, Wyland does not only paint whales because he likes them. His main objective is to bring the plight of the whale to the attention of the public in the hope that they will not become extinct. And he has chosen his medium well. It is not easy to walk past one of his giant murals without admiring the beauty of his whales. We can only hope the real thing outlives Wyland's artistic representations of them.

Preparation

1 Match the photos to paragraphs (A–D).

1 _____ 2 _____ 3 _____ 4 _____

- A As a writer and artist, I'm often asked where my inspiration comes from. I have to say that if you have to look for inspiration, then you have no business being a writer. However, it is an interesting question to pursue.
- B Speaking for myself, the inspiration for my work comes from many places. I've always been interested in history, all the amazing events that have happened over time. I love the way you can choose to inhabit a moment in time, in a particular country. And then of course, there's the fact that different people often have different perceptions of the same historical event.
- C The second thing that fascinates me is family. What particularly interests me are the dynamics within a family group, how people get on with each other – or don't! I like exploring notions of kinship and family likeness, also the sharing of personality traits.
- D I also love travelling – and I don't mean necessarily to far-flung exotic places. What intrigues me is seeing how humans have created and destroyed communities in social experiments or as a result of building trends.
- E To sum up, the things that inspire me are those aspects of life that challenge us to think about our place in the world.

2 Match the symbols and abbreviations with their meaning.

3 According to the text do the Germans, the Americans or the Finns show the following characteristics?

- 1 The _____ like their houses to look nice.
- 2 The _____ are very welcoming once they know you.
- 3 The _____ are proud of their country.
- 4 The _____ always do everything together.
- 5 The _____ are very punctual.
- 6 The _____ are extremely friendly.

CHALLENGE!

In your opinion, what are the main characteristics of the following?

The Japanese: _____

The Germans: _____

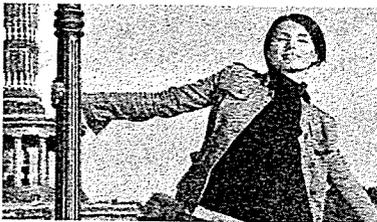

The Americans: _____

The British: _____

The Italians: _____

British teenagers abroad

We all know what other nationalities say about the British! Now it's time for us to see how British teenagers get on abroad. We asked Mel, Becky and Ian for their views about the people they have met on their travels.

Mel, age 18, in Germany

I just can't believe how punctual the Germans are! Everything happens at exactly the time that they say it will, and if anything goes wrong, everybody gets really bad-tempered. In general, people can be a bit unfriendly if they don't know you, but once you've been introduced, they often invite you to their house for coffee and cakes.

Becky, age 19, in the USA

Americans find British people fascinating, so I spend hours talking to people. Everyone's really friendly, but sometimes it gets a bit much. My friends are really funny and we spend a lot of time at parties or at burger bars together. It's very difficult to do anything on your own because someone always wants to come with you!

Ian, age 17, in Finland

When I arrived here, the people I met, especially in shops and restaurants, seemed very serious. But my opinions changed when I made some friends. Finnish people, in fact, love having a good time and are very generous, too! In general, the people are patriotic and are keen to show you their country. They're also hard-working and extremely tidy at home!

| 7 devices | g significant |
| 8 hidden | h monitor |
| 9 common | i additives |
| 10 butter and milk | j invisible |

2 Read the text and add the following phrases or clauses in the correct gap.

- A if families are no longer sitting down to eat together
- B or two-for-one offers
- C so that it didn't go off
- D the extent of which is difficult to gauge in our diets

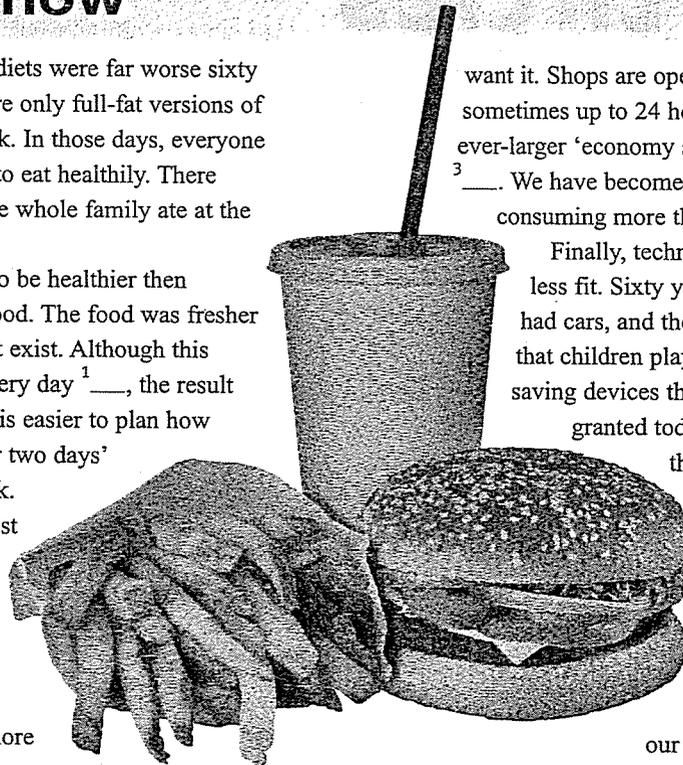

Eating patterns: then and now

People often think that our diets were far worse sixty years ago because there were only full-fat versions of products like butter and milk. In those days, everyone was less aware of the need to eat healthily. There wasn't much variety, and the whole family ate at the same time.

However, people tended to be healthier then because there was no fast food. The food was fresher because preservatives didn't exist. Although this meant shopping for food every day ¹ ____, the result was less waste generally. It is easier to plan how much you'll need for one or two days' meals than for a whole week.

Besides preservatives, most processed food also contains largely hidden amounts of salt and fat, ² ____. Portion control has become significant, too.

Because we are generally more affluent now, we have become used to having more of what we like whenever we want it. Shops are open seven days a week, sometimes up to 24 hours. Supermarkets offer ever-larger 'economy size' packets and cartons, ³ ____. We have become very wasteful, while consuming more than ever.

Finally, technology has made us all less fit. Sixty years ago, fewer people had cars, and the absence of TV meant that children played outside. The labour-saving devices that we take so much for granted today were not so common then. For all its tedium, housework requires the same repetitive, stretching movements that many men and women pay to do at the gym. But one of the key changes in family life is our fractured lifestyle. No matter how healthy the food in the house, it is very difficult to control what people are eating ⁴ ____.

3 Complete the sentences with words from the text.

- 1 I always buy semi-skimmed milk. I never buy _____ milk.
- 2 We've got to have _____ in our diet. I couldn't eat the same thing all the time.
- 3 The fish in the market seems _____ than the fish in the shops.
- 4 I hate throwing out so much food. It's a terrible _____.
- 5 In Western countries, we all eat too much _____ food from tins and packets.
- 6 That _____ of rice is much too big. You don't need to eat that much.
- 7 I can't believe you think you're poor. You've no idea how _____ you are compared with many people.
- 8 It isn't enough to change your diet to become healthier. You also have to change your _____.

- 7 The writer thinks people are fascinated by crop circles because the cause of crop circles is unknown. ____

CHALLENGE!

Find out about Mary Celeste – the greatest maritime mystery of all time. Write a brief summary of what happened.

Crop circles

– genuine or a hoax?

The patterns shown in the photograph are known as 'crop circles' and they caused great media speculation in the 1980s in Britain.

When two men, David Chorley and Douglas Bower, admitted in 1991 that they were responsible for more than 250 of the crop circles that appeared in southern England in the 1980s, the mystery seemed to have been solved. However, since then, research into crop circles has developed into a science called 'cereology'. Although 'cereologists' agree that about 80% of crop circles are man-made, they claim that another 20% remain unexplained.

So what causes the genuine crop circles? There are a number of possible explanations, some more credible than others. Colin Andrews has been researching crop circles since the 1980s. He claims they appear in fields in the summer because of a change in the Earth's magnetic field.

David Kingston, a leading UFO and crop circle researcher, has another theory. He has been investigating UFOs since the 1950s and is convinced there is a link between the two. He suggests that the genuine formations are created by an energy that is not used on this planet. He has also discovered, with the help of a specialized computer program, that the crop circles are capable of making an unusual kind of music.

Whatever the cause of the phenomenon, one thing is clear. The attraction of crop circles is the mystery surrounding them. Once the mystery has been solved, they will cease to be interesting.

3 Read the text about low-cost airlines and match the headings (1-6) with the paragraphs (A-E). There is one heading that you do not need.

- Paperless operations
- Travelling without tickets
- Online booking
- Reduced number of flight attendants
- Efficient use of airports and aircraft
- No free lunch

CHALLENGE!

Find out which budget airlines fly from Britain to your country and which airports they use. Make notes on the airline, the schedules and the prices for the airport nearest to you.

Budget air travel

Budget air travel has made travelling abroad much more popular than it ever has been before. But how do airlines like easyJet and Ryanair manage to cut their prices and still remain competitive? Listed below are the main methods used for cutting costs.

A _____

Booking over the internet reduces the need for a call centre, and eliminates the use of a travel agent in the purchasing of tickets. More than 95% of easyJet seats are now sold online and all planes have been painted with the web address of the airline.

B _____

Airlines have reduced the time the aircraft spend in airports between landing and take-off so that more journeys can be made every day. Ryanair often uses secondary airports whose fees are cheaper than main airports.

C _____

Passengers are only required to present their passports and booking confirmation at the check-in desk, which eliminates the cost of issuing tickets. Instead of a ticket, passengers receive an email containing their flight details and booking reference.

D _____

Passengers are not offered an onboard meal by low-cost airlines, whose reasoning is that passengers would only complain about it anyway! In this way, management and bureaucracy charges are reduced, and passengers are not obliged to pay for something they don't want.

E _____

As well as eliminating the need to issue flight tickets for passengers, low-cost airlines have invested in high-tech computer applications for their staff, reducing the paper consumption in their offices.

'Feed Me Better'

'Feed Me Better' is the name of the campaign run by TV chef, Jamie Oliver, to improve eating habits in British schools. Jamie is popular with young people all over Britain because of his cookery programmes. His ingredients are fresh, his recipes are simple, and his meals are absolutely delicious.

So when he found out what Britain's schoolchildren were eating at school, he went on the warpath. He discovered that school dinners centred around processed food, chips and burgers, and that children were incapable of recognizing basic vegetables. So Jamie resolved to do something about it.

He decided to make a TV series called Jamie's School Dinners which showed the successes and failures of his attempt to improve the dinner menu of a school in Greenwich, London. He was assisted by the school dinner lady, Nora Sands, who was keen to learn how to give the children a more balanced meal while not exceeding her budget.

At the same time as the programmes were being filmed, Jamie ran a national campaign called 'Feed Me Better' to bring the state of the nation's school dinners to the attention of the government.

As a result of the 300,000-signature petition that Jamie presented to Prime Minister Tony Blair in the spring of 2005, new legislation was brought in to control school dinners. Now children are promised two pieces of fruit with their meal, and fizzy drinks, sweets, chocolate and crisps are banned.

Jamie Oliver has shown that it is possible to do something positive for Britain's schoolchildren instead of just using them to make money.

I've got a sore throat / a headache / an upset stomach.

Talking about plans

Have you got any plans [for the weekend]?

Are you busy [at the weekend]?

I'm going to have an early night.

What are you doing on [Sunday]?

What about [Sunday evening]?

Deciding what to do

Why don't we go to [the theatre]?

Do you fancy going for a walk?

Thanks, but I've already got plans [for Saturday].

It's kind of you to ask, but I'm busy [on Sunday].

I don't fancy [going out for a walk].

You'll enjoy it when you get there.

OK. You've persuaded me.

Making conversations

Excuse me. You're [Ben Wilson's sister], aren't you?

We've met somewhere before, haven't we?

How do you know [Ben]?

What about you? Have you got any hobbies?

What kinds of [films] do you like?

Anyway, I'd better get back to my friends.

Nice talking to you.

See you around.

Asking for information

Hello. I wonder if you could help me?

Can you tell me where [the nearest post office] is?

Would you mind telling me if the plane is on time?

Do you know which platform the trains [to London] go from?

Arguing your case

Do you really think so?

I don't think that's a very good idea.

Are you sure about that?

I take your point, but on the other hand ...

I see what you mean, but ...

I suppose you could be right.

OK, whatever you want. I don't feel strongly about it.

Well, if that's what you really want to do, then OK.

Oh, I don't agree.

I'm not convinced.

Evaluating an experience

What was [the play] like?

I loved every minute of it.

The actors were awesome.

He was such a brilliant actor.

It was so awful.

The male and female leads were both atrocious.

WRITING BANK

Informal letter

Dear Michelle,

Thanks for your letter. It was great to hear from you and to hear about your skiing trip. I'm glad you had a good time!

I've taken so long to write back because I've been busy studying for my exams. They're over now, and I think I've passed everything, except physics, of course.

How about you? Have you finished your exams yet? Perhaps we can get together when school finishes. If you want to come down to Bristol for a weekend in July, it would be great to see you. Tell me what you think.

The only other news is that my brother Andrew has got engaged. His fiancée is quite nice actually, and I think we're going to get on really well.

Anyway, that's all for now. Please write soon and tell me when you can come and visit.

Best wishes,

Jane

PS If you can't come to Bristol, I don't mind travelling up to Manchester.

- Start the letter with Dear and your friend's first name.
- You can use informal language.
- You can use contractions.
- You can use phrasal verbs.
- Use a phrase to bring your letter to a close.
- End your letter with Best wishes.
- If you want to introduce some more information or something you have forgotten you can put PS (postscript) after your name.

Essay (for and against)

There are few people today who could exist without their mobile phones. Nevertheless, the invention of the mobile phone also has its drawbacks that people tend to forget about.

Not all people know how to use a mobile phone with sufficient respect, and trying to sleep on public transport these days has become impossible. Family visits have also lost out as younger members spend the afternoon texting friends or playing games when in earlier days they would have been interacting with the rest of the family.

However, there is no denying that mobile phones have a number of advantages. Parents with teenagers give their children more freedom if they take their phones with them when they go out. In addition, the mobile is useful for teenagers for getting home as all they have to do is dial their parents' number and the family taxi will arrive at the arranged time free of charge.

On balance, it seems that mobile phones have as many disadvantages as positive aspects. However, in some situations they are indispensable. If you have a car accident on a lonely road in the middle of the night, it's clear that the quickest way to solve the problem is by making a phone call. In this way, I, for one, am happier with my mobile phone in my bag, than without it, and I would recommend every driver to carry a phone with them at all times.

- Divide your essay into four paragraphs.
- Write an interesting introduction to your essay that will encourage your reader to continue reading.
- In the second paragraph include points against your argument.
- In the third paragraph include points in favour of your argument.
- The fourth paragraph should be a conclusion balancing the arguments for and against.
- Use linking expressions (see circled examples) to guide your reader through your essay.

Formal letter

- Start Dear Sir or Madam if you don't know the name of the person you are writing to. Use the person's title (Mr, Mrs, Ms) and their surname if you do.

Dear Sir or Madam,

- Use formal expressions.

I am writing to enquire about the holiday apartments on the Costa Brava advertised in Beach Holidays magazine this month.

- Avoid contractions.

In your advertisement you mention that all the apartments are self-catering. Would you mind telling me what cooking facilities are available in the kitchen? Could you also tell me if cooking utensils are provided?

- State your reason for writing in the first paragraph.

I noticed from your advertisement that the beach is very near. However, I would also like to know if the apartments have a swimming pool as we will be travelling with small children.

- State your requests using indirect questions.

I would be very grateful if you could send me a list of apartments and prices with a view to making a reservation in August.

- Use a phrase to bring your letter to a close.

I look forward to hearing from you.

- End your letter with Yours faithfully if you started with Dear Sir or Madam, and Yours sincerely if you started with the person's title and surname.

Yours faithfully,

- Sign your name and print it in full afterwards.

Essay (giving your opinion)

There is a saying that "travel broadens the mind" and it is certainly true that you can learn a lot from visiting other countries. In my opinion, travelling helps you to improve your language skills, increase your awareness of the world and become more independent.

Travelling allows you to practise your foreign language skills in real situations, rather than just in a classroom. For example, you will almost certainly need to buy tickets, book accommodation and order food and drink. Moreover, you are likely to find yourself meeting people and making conversation in a foreign language. These encounters can sometimes lead to lasting friendships, too.

People who have never left their hometown may have quite a narrow view of the world. In contrast, people who have travelled can base their opinions on a wider range of experiences. Furthermore, travelling can raise your awareness of important global issues. For instance, visiting the Amazonian rainforest will probably make you more passionate about protecting it from destruction.

Travelling puts you in situations which you do not find in your normal everyday routine at home. Learning how to cope with these is good experience, and makes you a stronger and more independent person. For example, young people who backpack around Europe often have to learn how to live cheaply while they are travelling.

In conclusion, I would say that travelling is a very valuable experience. It provides a form of education which you cannot get from books or in the classroom.

- Write an interesting introduction outlining the general areas you are going to cover in your essay.

- Allocate one paragraph to each general area.

- Include examples (see underlined phrases) to illustrate your points.

- Use linking expressions (see circled examples) to connect points, where necessary.

- The final paragraph should be a conclusion summing up your opinion in different words and including a final thought on the issue.
