Put some ART in your pARTy!

For teens who love art, music and food, this party idea is a celebration to remember. The plan is to get your friends to do a painting in the style of Jackson Pollock, the famous American painter. You don't have to buy paintbrushes, because Pollock's style is to pour paint onto paper like water from a jug. However, your artists will need sticks to move the paint around.

Before the guests arrive, fix one piece of paper per person on the floor. Divide the paint into small yoghurt pots, so that everyone has three or four different colours. You can also give each person some sand so the pictures have an unusual texture. Put on some loud music when your guests arrive and start painting! You can leave the pictures outdoors to dry while you have your pizzas. Then go outside to look at the final result, which is always amazing.

- 1 This party is especially for _____.
- 2 Guests don't need _____ to paint their pictures.
- 3 Artists use _____ to move the paint.
- 4 _____ gives the pictures a different texture.
- 5 When the paintings are dry, they look _____.
