Two of my friends went on a three-week climbing holiday in Switzerland year. They had climbing lessons for six months before they left and took ropes and other important equipment. On the first day of their holiday, they started climbing one of the East Mountains. It was a bright, sunny day and they did not find climbing difficult. When it was nearly dark, they stopped and ate some of the food they had brought with them, then they made beds for themselves on a large piece of rock. The mountain side provided shelter from the wind.

During the night, it became very cold and started to snow. Unfortunately, when my friends woke up in the morning, the snow was still falling and they decided to come down the mountain. But there was too much snow and they had to wait for five hours to be rescued.

A. Answer the following questions:

Computers are far more efficient than human beings. They have much better memories and can store huge amounts of information and they can do calculations in no time. They can pay wages, reserve seats on planes, control machines in factories, tell about tomorrow's weather, and even play chess, write poetry or compose music. Also, computerized shopping like computerized banking operations of all kinds are quick, safe and convenient and are kept on computer tapes.

Moreover computers can often do a doctor's work better than human beings can. They don't suffer from the lack of sleep, so they never forget anything they have been told to do or miss important points. Some people even think we should be able to cure disease in the early stages. The new National Police Computer can help the police fight crime and catch criminals. The only problem is that we have a new kind of criminals, the very clever man who knows how to make huge sums of money by cheating the computer and he is very difficult catch.

Computers are also great help to scholars and librarians. There are systems being developed to translate articles from foreign magazines by computer. But there are some defects of computers. They can only do what they are told. We program computers and they are only as good as the program fed into them.

A. Answer the following questions:

1. Why is the computer faster than a mathematician?
.....
2. What is recommended to cure diseases in the early stages?
.....
3. Why is it an advantage that computers don't suffer from the lack of sleep?
.....

B. Choose the correct answer.

4. The underlined pronoun "They" refers to (scholars - computers - criminals - librarians).
5. We program computers and they are only as (bad - worse - good - worst) as the program fed into them.

4. Read the following passage and answer the questions:

In Egypt, tourism industry has come to hold a position of great importance lately. It is that could help increase the national income. In some European countries, tourism has brought in millions of dollars yearly, although they lack the natural and historical attractions we have in Egypt. We could, for instance, establish tourist villages for children on the Red Sea. We could teach fishing, swimming, diving and sailing there. Our tourist, today, wants efficient and friendly service. He would probably prefer to try out samples of our local food than eat the international meals which are served in some places. This would be more interesting than having the same things he always eats in his country.

It must also be remembered that most tourists nowadays are seldom rich. Many of them are students or hardworking employees. So what is needed is not expensive hotels, but clean comfortable places to sleep and eat in at reasonable prices. This too, would encourage the Egyptians to travel more and more around their lovely country.

A. Answer the following questions:

1. Why has tourism become very important in Egypt?
.....
2. What would cheap and clean hotels encourage the Egyptians to do?
.....
3. Where could we teach children swimming, diving and sailing?
.....

B. Choose the correct answer.

4. The underlined pronoun "them" refers to (places - tourists - children - dollars).
5. What is needed is not expensive (villas - hotels - apartments - offices), but clean comfortable places to sleep and eat in at reasonable prices.

4. Read the following passage and answer the questions:

A Japanese journalist wrote a report about why she and millions of other Japanese have become lovers of running. Eleven years ago when I started running, most runners were middle-aged men and high school athletes. Today I see young girls, old men and others of every age. We also have today thousands of running clubs and hundreds of special running boutiques. Running suits are also offered by top fashion designers. The Japanese have looked at sports as good for both the mind and the body and in recent years there has been an increased interest in physical fitness. In addition, facilities for most sports, such as golf and tennis are extremely limited and often very expensive. But running can be done almost anywhere and you don't have to spend a lot of money to do it. Running can also become a part of a daily routine, and help the individual to live a more orderly life. Most of us today live rather sedentary lives because we usually work sitting down, using our brains instead of our bodies. Daily, we find ourselves under increasing mental and medicine. While a person is running, he has time to be alone with his thoughts.

I think more and more people are becoming runners because they have realized that if they want a full and affluent life, they must be healthy too. Running is the quickest and easiest way to achieve balance.

A. Answer the following questions:

1. Why is running a more available sport for everyone?

.....

2. How is running a medicine for our daily pressures?

.....

3. Give a suitable title to this passage.

.....

B. Choose the correct answer.

4. In the past, runners were mostly (school children - old men - pupils - middle-aged men).

5. The Japanese have thought that running is good for (increasing mental and psychological pressure - our physical mental health - using our brains instead of our bodies - mental pressure only).

4. Read the following passage and answer the questions:

I had an interview for a job as a clerk in the local bank last week. It was at nine o'clock in the morning, which is a bit early for me. I woke up at nearly nine and put on my jeans as usual. Then, I got on my bike and started to cycle to the bank. After a short time, the bicycle broke down and I could not mend it. So, I got the bus to town.

By the time I arrived at the bank, it was nearly ten o'clock. I was asked to sit in the manager's office. I felt really hungry. When the manager came in, I was still eating my crisps. So I offered her one but she refused. Then, she started to ask me about why I wanted to work in a bank, but I hadn't really thought about it. So, I didn't know what to say. And I was not really listening carefully because I felt very tired and I could not understand any of questions. Then, I asked her how much the pay was and how long the holidays were. She told me but she seemed a bit annoyed.

At the end of the interview, she asked me if I had any question. I said; "

Yes. Have I got the job?" But she said they would let me know the following week. Well I have received their letter. They have refused me.

A. Answer the following questions:

1. What job did the writer want to get?
