21. Part 1

22. Khalid's Big Day

23. Although my alarm clock was ringing loudly, I was reluctant to drag myself from bed because it was ceremony day, and I was due to receive my diploma. Filled with enthusiasm, Mum banged repeatedly at my door, eager for me to wake up and get ready for the event which I had been fearing for days. Although I blocked my ears, I could still hear a familiar singing voice filling up the house like a cloud of thick smoke. I was quite certain it must be Aunt Maryam.

---

It was obvious by their behavior that they were more concerned about today's ceremony than I was.

“Leave me alone, please,” I begged.

They deliberately ignored my request, and both continued banging aggressively at my door. Filled with a huge wave of frustration, I pulled open the door, shouting, “Mum, stop! You are being rude.”

“You don't want to go do you? Khalid, this degree you completed is reported to be one of the most complex courses in the country and above all, your test scores, which you won a variety of trophies for, are among the best in the region. Your determination has resulted in you becoming a fully qualified medical professional. This certificate is the reward you so very much deserve,” she responded, in a startlingly direct manner.

I was certain, if the universities had sent the invitations earlier, giving us more notice, my father would have been able to book a flight in time and that's what was causing me the most disappointment. My father is certainly more interested in my educational studies than any of his current work projects in Europe and would love to be here. I was heartbroken, but I wanted to please my mother, so I attended the ceremony anyway.

“Khalid Al Ali!”

I nervously approached the stage, guided by the bright lights, I felt a firm pat on my right shoulder.

It must be Ahmed from biology. He is one of the most annoying boys in school and often hits people in class, I thought.

“Congratulations, my son.”

It couldn't be. Could it? I thought.

“You made it!” My eyes lit up with delight. There he stood, the man who'd looked after me my whole life, teary eyed but bursting with pride.

36. Part 2

37. Alternative Energy Now!

38. Alternative Energy Now! is being released to encourage global leaders to do more to tackle complex factors, such as overpopulation of urban developments, which are resulting in rising temperatures. The documentary looks at the alternative energy sources that are being employed by nations in order to battle the climate crisis and focuses mainly on the countries which are more interested in making real change than others. One of the most concerning aspects of the documentary is that a report stated some of those in global positions speak positively for change and share their innovative ideas during global climate meetings. However, when it comes to implementing these projects, they do very little. What shocked me the most was the report that suggested if countries had, in fact, studied the data in the early nineties when concerns were raised, we would have a much more positive outlook today. Spoiler alert: Experts predict a frightening future.

The documentary explains how wind energy is thought to be among the best and cleanest energy sources because it has little negative impact on the environment, and therefore, reduces the reliance on sources that create fossil fuels. In China and the US, wind turbines are being placed in coastal regions, open plains, and mountains areas, making them a constant source of energy from the continuing high winds. The turbines gather kinetic energy through air in motion and use it to generate electricity.

More good news! Roofs are being replaced with greener options across American cities to combat rising temperatures. In 2001, Chicago covered 20,000 square feet of its city hall roof with vegetation. It was reported to have made a 50-degree difference in temperature to the building, which resulted in a reduction in cooling and heating costs and overall energy demand in comparison to a nearby tar roof building.

Solar power is believed to be more popular with individual households today than other energy sources. This might be because it was reported by a European government that installing the panels can also make homes more cost efficient. Although solar panels are easily accessible, meaning people can take more control of their energy use rather than relying on large scale government projects such as wind farms, they are extremely costly and only produce energy for half the day due to reliance on sunlight.

40.

The documentary states that cities are heating up at a faster rate due to the ____.

a. absence of climate change initiatives

b. lack of alternative energy sources

c. growth of the population

41.

- c. often share their ideas ☐

*****BONUS*****The author was surprised by the report because countries didn't ____.

- a. review the statistics earlier ☐
- b. have a positive outlook ☐
- c. predict this negative outcome ☐

43.

What is the main focus of paragraph 2?

- a. the harmful emissions generated by China and the US ☐
- b. the actions taken to generate clean energy ☐
- c. the negative effect of a renewable energy technology ☐

44.

What is located in coastal spaces?

- a. solar panels ☐
- b. roof vegetation ☐
- c. wind technology ☐

45.

What is being installed on top of urban buildings to battle temperature increases?

- a. wind turbines ☐
- b. tar roofs ☐
- c. plants ☐

46.

According to the author, solar power is becoming more commonly known because ____.

- a. solar panels are said to be more economical ☐
- b. government-run alternative energy initiatives are too slow ☐
- c. the panels are not expensive to buy ☐ 47.

According to the documentary, what is a significant difference between solar energy and wind energy?

- a. Solar energy is more widely used in the US and China than wind energy. ☐
- b. Solar energy is less efficient than wind energy. ☐
- c. Solar energy makes homes more cost efficient, unlike expensive wind-powered homes. ☐

48.

Reading Passage

Cultural Celebrations and Rites of Passage

In many cultures around the world, significant life events are celebrated through rituals and ceremonies, often referred to as rites of passage. These ceremonies can mark various transitions, such as graduation, marriage, or the transition to adulthood. For instance, a graduation ceremony is not only a recognition of academic achievement but also a rite of passage that symbolizes the transition from student life to the professional world. Graduates often wear caps and gowns, and the event is filled with celebrations that include speeches, awards, and a communal gathering to honor their accomplishments.

Similarly, weddings represent a major life transition, typically involving a proposal that is often accompanied by an engagement ring as a symbol of commitment. The wedding ceremony itself is rich with rituals that vary across cultures. For example, in some cultures, the bride is accompanied by a flower girl, while the groom may have groomsmen to support him during the event. The reception that follows includes a buffet meal, dancing, and heartfelt speeches. These celebrations serve not only to unite the couple but also to bring families and communities together, reinforcing cultural bonds.

In addition to joyous occasions, rituals surrounding funerals play a crucial role in many societies. Funerals are held to honor those who have passed away, and different cultures may choose between cremation and burial in a coffin. The rituals observed during these ceremonies often reflect the beliefs and values of the deceased and their families. Expressions of sympathy are common, as friends and family come together to support one another during times of grief.

In contemporary society, some practices may become trends or fads, but the core values of these rituals often remain steadfast. Whether through a formal wedding or a simple gathering to celebrate a milestone, these events are deeply rooted in the culture and shared experiences of individuals. Many people also turn to practices like meditation to find guidance and clarity during these important times, helping them to purify their minds and focus on what truly matters.

As we reflect on these various rituals—be it the joy of a wedding, the solemnity of a funeral, or the pride of a graduation—we see that each occasion serves to connect us to our culture, our families, and ourselves. They remind us of our shared humanity and the importance of celebrating life's milestones, both joyful and sorrowful.

Reading Passage:

Urbanization and Its Challenges

Urbanization, the process by which more and more people move from rural to urban areas, is a global phenomenon. As cities grow, they face significant challenges in terms of infrastructure, pollution, and social integration. The rapid influx of people into urban centers often strains existing resources and services, leading to increased pressure on transportation, housing, and healthcare systems.

One of the key challenges of urbanization is infrastructure development. Many cities struggle to keep pace with the demands of a growing population, resulting in inadequate roads, public transportation, and utilities. This lack of optimal infrastructure not only affects daily life but also hinders economic growth and environmental sustainability.

Another critical issue is pollution, particularly air and water emissions. Urban areas, with their concentration of vehicles and industries, are major contributors to air pollution. Efforts to reduce pollutants are essential for improving public health and mitigating environmental degradation.

Moreover, urbanization impacts dwellers in various ways. City dwellers often face higher living costs and greater socio-economic disparities compared to rural residents. Access to affordable housing and quality education becomes increasingly challenging, exacerbating inequality within urban communities.

Despite these challenges, urbanization also presents opportunities for innovative solutions. Cities can integrate sustainable practices, such as green building designs and efficient waste management systems, to improve environmental quality and overall urban living conditions.

experience, others argue that it promotes inclusivity, allowing more people to participate in traditions.

The challenge lies in finding a balance between embracing new technologies and preserving cultural practices. It was obvious by their behavior that they were more concerned about today's ceremony than I was.

"Leave me alone, please," I begged.

They deliberately ignored my request, and both continued banging aggressively at my door. Filled with a huge wave of frustration, I pulled open the door, shouting, "Mum, stop! You are being rude."

“You don’t want to go do you? Khalid, this degree you completed is reported to be one of the most complex courses in the country and above all, your test scores, which you won a variety of trophies for, are among the best in the region. Your determination has resulted in you becoming a fully qualified medical professional. This certificate is the reward you so very much deserve,” she responded, in a startlingly direct manner.

I was certain, if the universities had sent the invitations earlier, giving us more notice, my father would have been able to book a flight in time and that’s what was causing me the most disappointment. My father is certainly more interested in my educational studies than any of his current work projects in Europe and would love to be here. I was heartbroken, but I wanted to please my mother, so I attended the ceremony anyway.

“Khalid Al Ali!”

I nervously approached the stage, guided by the bright lights, I felt a firm pat on my right shoulder.

It must be Ahmed from biology. He is one of the most annoying boys in school and often hits people in class, I thought.

“Congratulations, my son.”

It couldn't be. Could it? I thought.

"You made it!" My eyes lit up with delight. There he stood, the man who'd looked after me my whole life, teary eyed but bursting with pride.

Part 2

Alternative Energy Now!

38. Alternative Energy Now! is being released to encourage global leaders to do more to tackle complex factors, such as overpopulation of urban developments, which are resulting in rising temperatures. The documentary looks at the alternative energy sources that are being employed by nations in order to battle the climate crisis and focuses mainly on the countries which are more interested in making real change than others. One of the most concerning aspects of the documentary is that a report stated some of those in global positions speak positively for change and share their innovative ideas during global climate meetings. However, when it comes to implementing these projects, they do very little. What shocked me the most was the report that suggested if countries had, in fact, studied the data in the early nineties when concerns were raised, we would have a much more positive outlook today. Spoiler alert: Experts predict a frightening future.

The documentary explains how wind energy is thought to be among the best and cleanest energy sources because it has little negative impact on the environment, and therefore, reduces the reliance on sources that create fossil fuels. In China and the US, wind turbines are being placed in coastal regions, open plains, and mountains areas, making them a constant source of energy from the continuing high winds. The turbines gather kinetic energy through air in motion and use it to generate electricity.

More good news! Roofs are being replaced with greener options across American cities to combat rising temperatures. In 2001, Chicago covered 20,000 square feet of its city hall roof with vegetation. It was reported to have made a 50-degree difference in temperature to the building, which resulted in a reduction in cooling and heating costs and overall energy demand in comparison to a nearby tar roof building.

Solar power is believed to be more popular with individual households today than other energy sources. This might be because it was reported by a European government that installing the panels can also make homes more cost efficient. Although solar panels are easily accessible, meaning people can take more control of their energy use rather than relying on large scale government projects such as wind farms, they are extremely costly and only produce energy for half the day due to reliance on sunlight.

40.

The documentary states that cities are heating up at a faster rate due to the ____.

a. absence of climate change initiatives

b. lack of alternative energy sources

☐

c. growth of the population

41.

A number of world leaders ____ when it's time to put climate initiatives in place.

a. are lazy and uninterested

b. appear enthusiastic and positive

☐

c. often share their ideas

42.

*****BONUS*****The author was surprised by the report because countries didn't ____.

a. review the statistics earlier

b. have a positive outlook

☐

c. predict this negative outcome

43.

What is the main focus of paragraph 2?

a. the harmful emissions generated by China and the US

☐

b. the actions taken to generate clean energy

☐

c. the negative effect of a renewable energy technology

44.

What is located in coastal spaces?

a. solar panels

b. roof vegetation

☐

c. wind technology

45.

What is being installed on top of urban buildings to battle temperature increases?

a. wind turbines

b. tar roofs

☐

c. plants

46.

According to the author, solar power is becoming more commonly known because ____.

a. solar panels are said to be more economical

b. government-run alternative energy initiatives are too slow

☐

c. the panels are not expensive to buy

47.

According to the documentary, what is a significant difference between solar energy and wind energy?

- a. Solar energy is more widely used in the US and China than wind energy. ☐
- b. Solar energy is less efficient than wind energy. ☐
- c. Solar energy makes homes more cost efficient, unlike expensive wind-powered homes. ☐

Part 3

Smart Homes

1 (Due to / Result of / The reason for) the recent article on the advantages of having a smart home, I highly 2 (predict / likely / regret) not looking into this option sooner. In fact, if I 3 (have/had/has) known about its efficiency before, I 4 (never would have imagined / certainly would have considered / doubtfully would've thought of) having one installed. Having a smart home that is economical is 5 (most important than / more than important / more important than) having a traditional home that costs a fortune in monthly bills. The very first smart home ever built was described as being 6 (some of the worst / among the best / one of the most) built houses in the world. Today, smart homes 7 (are being / will be/were being) installed by homeowners to control their lights, appliances, and thermostats remotely. It 8 (was reported/was believed to have/is thought to be) that smart homeowners feel 90% safer living in their smart home than their previous homes and argue that this surely 9 (might / must / should) be because of their security capabilities. After reading this article, I predict that many people will move towards smart homes within the near future.
